2 WALKING ARSENALS JAILED

Tourists From Connecticut Thought Guns Necessary in Wild West---Believed Even Women Carried 'Em.

H. J. Anderson and Herman Strassman, tourists from Connecticut, are today guests of the city of Oakland, however much against their wishes, confined, as they are, in the city prison. They were such firm believers in the Eastern estimate of the wild and woolly West that it was necessary for the protection of their lives and property to go about as well as they could.

Each of the men had a big revolver in his hip pocket and as the vagrant broccos which flitted with their coatsails at Seventh and Broadway this morning came within their side the Police Officer Heineburg saw the handles of their "dynamite" and promptly placed them under arrest.

AGAINST THE LAW.

"Against the law to carry a revolver on the West," exclaimed Anderson to Desk Sergeant Walters. "Where did you think you were, in New York city?" queried Walters. "No," hesitatingly replied the two, "we were from Connecticut and always believed that everybody over the women out here carried revolvers."

Bill was fined at $25 for each of the two, but as only one was able to raise the amount both concluded to remain in the city prison until their cases could be tried in the police court and they could explain their situation to the judge.

to Isaac O. and Ben-

The holographic will of the late Isaac Upiami, the prominent San Francisco merchant, who was killed by an automobile in San Jose, was filed at the county clerk's office in this city today. The will was drawn on December 15.

Under the provisions of the instrument the estate is left in equal shares to Isaac Oliver Upham and Benjamin Prince Upham, sons of deceased. They reside at 1718 Tenth street, San Francisco.

The amount of the estate is not given in the will.

MILLION AND HALF

Attempt Made to Take the Bears
By Surprise in New York
Market

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Today's stock market was the most exciting for months and sales of stocks in the two hours of trading reached $1,300,000, the largest

At the end of the first hour this maneuver seemed to be meeting with success. In the stocks which were most active during the recent decline purchases of unusually large blocks—2,000 to 5,000 shares—in many cases were made in rapid succession and on these purchases prices ran up from 10 to 15 cents above the previous day's closing prices.

land common and St. Louis and San Francisco and Smelting were the leaders in the advance.

At the height of this move came a sudden selling pressure under which declines of a point or more occurred, within the compass of a few minutes. Speculation then became lively and stocks sold higher in the second hour than in the first. Just before the close heavy sales took profits for the day wiped out the earlier gains and the market closed feverish and unsettled.

quarrel and scuffle yesterday afternoon between Lee Forbes and George Bradovitch, the three-hand machine hands, the latter shot Forbes at San Fernando this morning, inflicting a serious wound. A bullet from Bradovitch's revolver passed through Forbes' chest and he is now in the county hospital. Forbes is 30 years of age and unmarried. Bradovitch is not yet in custody, although he announced he intended to give himself up.

DEMOCRATS OPTIMISTIC AT THEIR CONVENTION

Chairman Abbott's Reference to Bryan Is Cheered Wildly

With plenty of party enthusiasm the Bourbons nearly 180 strong met in Germania Hall this morning to nominate a complete county and state ticket. The features were the intense party loyalty exhibited by the delegates and the absence of party lines in the gallery of the hall, which on a previous occasion had been the scene of some of the fiercest political conventions in the state.

The delegates were simple, consisting of an array of men in the front row and a large number of women in the rear.

VERY ENTHUSIASTIC

The hall was filled with so many delegates that the delegates were crowded out of the hall. Truth Always Shines at Last.

It has developed since his death that ex-President Cleveland left a comparatively small estate—in fact, he died a poor man as fortunes are reckoned nowadays. He left his family comfortably situated, and his widow owns some property in her own right. Yet Mr. Cleveland always lived frugally, and was thrifty in money matters. He never made any bad speculations, and the small fortune he possessed at the time of his death was the result of a life time's acquisition over and above the cost of plain living in a simple establishment. It had been stated and restated as a positive fact, many times, that he was in the millionaire class, and the statement was employed as an argument to prove that he was unduly friendly to the great financial interests of New York City. Yet Mr. Cleveland left no inventory of his possessions, although an inventory would have been a complete refutation of the charge that he had become rich after his election to the Presidency.

It was a characteristic of the ex-President that he never replied to a personal attack nor denied a statement impugning his rectitude. Even in making his will he did not by indirection give the lie to his traducers. He did not say in effect, "Lo, in this pittance behold the millions I am alleged to have gained in Wall street speculations." He let his life answer his critics and trusted to posterity for an unbiased judgment on the facts. And, it may be remarked, that Mr. Cleveland never made personal attacks on his political adversaries. Although assailed vindictively himself, often charged with grave offenses against public morals, he never answered in kind nor entered a denial. He considered it beneath the dignity of a gentleman to debate his own honor.

He left the White House at the close of his first term worth about $80,000. He was worth not much above that sum when he died, and but for the salary he received from the Equitable Life Company during the last few years he would have died worth less. How the simple recital of the facts disclosed after death puts forever at rest the brutal calumnies set afloat while he lived, and how the rugged honesty of the man stands forth now that the clouds of misrepresentation have cleared away!

It is a pity the American people are not as ready to do justice to the living as they are to the dead. We make gods or Lucifers of our public men, and find that after all they are neither one nor the other.

We realize when we come to bury them that they are usually patriots and honest men notwithstanding their political differences and personal frailties. We concede then that differences of opinion regarding the tariff, State's rights, the money question, imperialism or the size of our military armament neither make men honest nor dishonest, and that wickedness and virtue are more often than otherwise merely indicative of the mental attitude and prejudices of the beholder. Mankind is not divided into saints and sinners; no man is wholly one or the other, and in nearly everyone there is some of the constituents of both saint and sinner.

For months political passions have been rioting in California. Wholesale charges impeaching the personal integrity and patriotism have been freely hurled at a great number of men of either State or local prominence. If these charges are approximately true, California is in a deplorable condition of moral and political degradation. But the public at large refuses to believe the charges, though parts of them are believed in some localities and by some individuals. In delirium of political combat men say things and credit things that in the cooler, sadder moments they would neither utter nor credit. In the end the calumnies dissipate and fade away, leaving the truth shining where but shortly before the clouds of obloquy settled.

When the clouds of suspicion, distrust and defamation are dispelled and things are seen in a clearer and truer light, saner judgments assert their sway and faith in men, laws and institutions once more resumes empire. And then we realize what a debaucher of men's judgments is political passion let loose and fanned by absurd stories imputing criminality to all who fail to subscribe to a particular creed or refuse to follow certain leaders. Mr. Cleveland was well aware that every popular spree is followed by a sober reaction, and when he was abused by Philip drunk he went his way quietly, content to know that when Philip got sober justice would finally be done. We shall see the same thing in this State. Falsehood and detraction can never permanently sway public opinion or control the public conscience.

First Gun of Mr. Bryan's Campaign.

Bryan's "first gun" was touched off at Des Moines yesterday, and it was aimed at protection. It was a fulminate against the Republican proposition to revise the tariff.

The Republican party, he held, is "obligated to protected interests." The Democrats alone are to be trusted with the work of equalizing taxes.

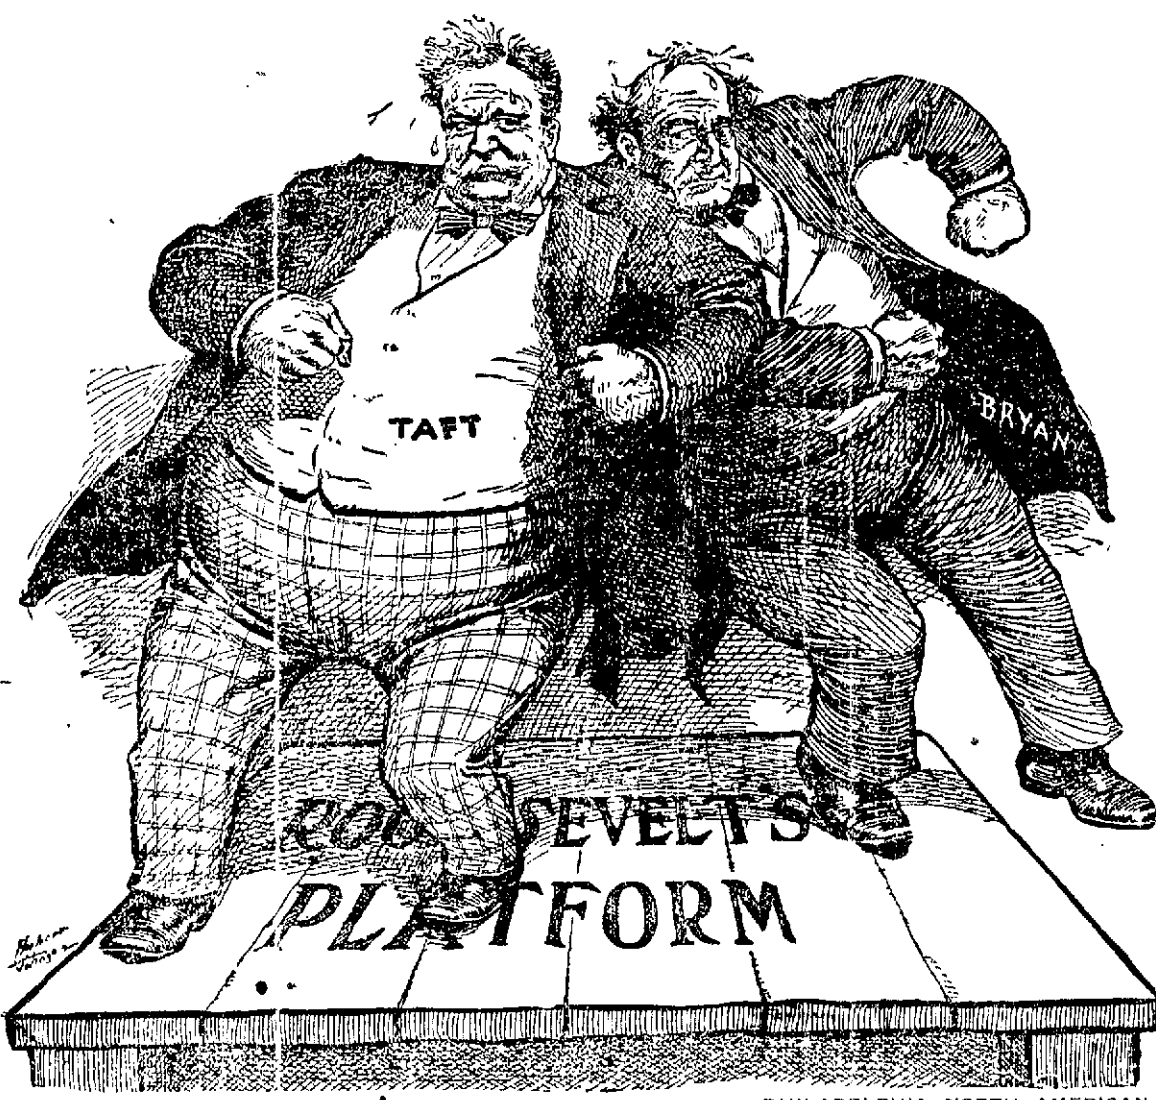

That is to say, the party that has brought this country to the highest state of prosperity that any country ever knew, through the policy of a protective tariff, is not to be trusted with the moderation of that tariff to meet altered conditions, but must give way to a party entirely opposed to the policy.

As a credential, this other party, on the only occasion in fifty years when it found itself in control of all the branches of government, enacted tariff legislation in the direction of its party belief that brought upon the country the most ruinous and lasting business depression it ever knew.

Mr. Bryan's not cohere as to the tariff, anyhow. He has a great deal to say about it, as he has about everything that comes into his head, or that he gets a hunch other people are thinking about; but no comprehensive theory as to the tariff that he has formulated and consistently advocated is now in the public mind. Generally his idea as to this policy is the same as his ideas about all other public questions—merely the reverse of the Republican idea. Instead of finding it desirable to be constructive and original, he sticks his pins in the speckholes of his opponent, and generally comes to a circumlocutory conclusion that what is necessary to salvation is the thing totally different from that which the Republicans propose.

The charge that the Republican party is "obligated to protected interests" suggests that the Democratic party stands for the reverse; that is, that its attitude is one of hostility to such interests. That is the true Democratic attitude, indeed; at least in platform and campaign. It may not be intended to carry out such implied hostility; it probably is buncombe; but the people in general fear it. They know what happened that other time, when buncombe found its opportunity, and they are duly afraid. The Bryan idea scares his own kind, when he seems to take it for granted that they ought to understand.

"QUIT YOUR SHOVING!"

The less Mr. Bryan says about the tariff, the more votes he will retain. The substantial people of the country have no faith either in his sincerity or statesmanship in this direction.

Great crowds of Virginians gather to hear Taft speak, but for all that we place little stock in reports that he is likely to carry the Old Dominion. He has a far better chance of getting Kentucky and Missouri, but he does not need any Southern State to win. New York, New England, the central group and the Western States will be solid for him, and that's a full hand! Bryan may take the rest of the cards in the pack and he cannot figure within a mile of winning.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS

People who write health hints know a lot on paper.

A girl always pretends that she doesn't want to be kissed.

If a man is really fond of music he seldom tries to sing.

A woman of few words usually has the reputation of being a chatterbox.

A girl can love almost any man that her parents are willing to object to.

It's a wise proverb that contains one-half the wisdom it is supposed to contain.

People who have no troubles don't know what they have to be thankful for.

When a man is known as a "good fellow" that is often about all he is good for.

If a man has money to burn he can easily find a woman willing to furnish a match.

The honeymoon is at an end when a man begins to laugh at his wife's attempts to sharpen a pencil.

Music is said to be the food of love—but you can't induce the butcher and grocer to swallow such talk.

BIG BAG FACTORY TO BE ESTABLISHED IN OAKLAND

California Company Is Arranging a Plant

The California Paper Bag Company has just unloaded the first car of machinery for its new bag factory, which will be located in the Key Route freight depot at Hollis and Fortieth streets. The plant will be in operation shortly, manufacturing paper bags by the millions.

One carload of machinery is already in place and another will arrive in a few weeks enabling the company to make all sizes and qualities of bags.

The Taylor Paper company is principally concerned in this new enterprise, being the largest holder of stock and agent.

This company is the pioneer in the paper trade on this coast, the founder of the S. P. Taylor, having erected the Pioneer Paper Mills in Marin county in 1866.

The bag factory will give employment to some twenty or thirty women and eight or ten men.

This is the only paper bag factory in the State. The Taylors will make the goods and values required in this line, having been brought up in the business and know it in every detail.

Reflections of a Bachelor

Nearly all girls like to be red-headed unless they are naturally.

Any man would rather be called a good sportsman than a good citizen.

The more noise a man persists in making the sooner he will convince people it is brains.

A woman has such an imagination she can make a romance out of her baby's marriage before it is born.

TO USE STREET CAR AS READING ROOM

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 22.—President Fred D. Thielen of the Erie Railroad has purchased an old fashioned street car, the first in his ever rode, and shipped it to Wauwatosa, where it will be set up as an outdoor reading room on the grounds of his ancestral home.

The street car opened his eyes to the possibilities of traffic on rails when he was a boy and turned his attention to railroading.

Mr. Underwood has kept the old homestead, which he visits once a year, in such condition that many of his friends may spend their summers there. There are three tents for overflow visitors.

FLEEING THIEF CAUGHT BY SPECIAL POLICEMAN

Special Policeman Thomas Shells, after an exciting chase of five blocks, yesterday afternoon captured Edward Carey, a notorious petty larceny thief, after Carey had escaped from the clutches of a Chinaman whose store at 816 San Pablo avenue he attempted to rob.

Shells won a place on the local police force by shooting and fatally wounding Edward Boyle on January 4 last after the thug had murdered Policeman J. J. Penon in West Oakland.

EARLY MORNING FIRE CAUSES BIG DAMAGE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 22.—Fire originating at 3:30 this morning from unknown causes on the second floor of the establishment of the Crane Company, manufacturer of steam fittings, 126-128 North Los Angeles street, caused damage estimated at $50,000, fully covered by insurance.

BURROWS TO GO ON STUMP IN EAST

Work on Tariff Reform Interrupted by Campaign in New England.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Senator Burrows, who has come to Washington for the purpose of putting into operation the machinery for the preparation of the tariff bill, promised for the sixty-first congress, will not be permitted to go forward undisturbed with that work, even in the immediate future.

He has promised Chairman Hitchcock to assist in the Republican campaign and will begin by doing what he can to promote that cause in Vermont and Maine. Counting confidently upon carrying both of these States, Hitchcock is at all desirous of obtaining as big a majority, in both as possible for the effect upon the general result in November, and is bending every effort to that end.

SPECIAL TRAIN BREAKS ALL RAILROAD RECORDS

WARSAW, Ind., Aug. 22.—All speed records of the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago division of the Pennsylvania railroad were broken yesterday. A special train carrying Professor E. T. Turnau, dean of the engineering department of the University of Wisconsin, Professor C. E. Randall of the railway engineering department of Cornell University and F. M. Graham, the Pennsylvania chemist at Altoona, made a test run from Plover to Warsaw, a distance of nine miles. The speed was in excess of 100 miles an hour.

The object was to determine the impact of trains with the rails while running at different speeds. The train making the record run was composed of a locomotive, a coach and a caroose. The train in another test ran ninety-two miles an hour and stopped within 100 feet from where the engineer shut off steam.

PICTURE OF SHERMAN AND TAFT TORN DOWN

OKLAHOMA, Okla., Aug. 22.—Much indignation was manifested last night by Republicans when it became known that a large picture of Taft and Sherman, posted within the last few days in the hall, Republican State headquarters, had been torn down. An investigation has been unavailing. The picture has been replaced.

$10,000 BOND ELECTION FOR TOWN HALL DEFEATED

REDDING, Aug. 22.—The special municipal election held here yesterday to vote upon bonds for municipal improvements resulted as follows:
The issue of $20,000 worth of bonds for increasing the water system in new residential sections of the town was carried by a vote of 273 to 23.
The $10,000 bond proposition to extend Phelps street was defeated by a vote of 12 to 1.
The $10,000 bond issue for building a new town hall was defeated by 12 votes. A very small vote was cast and little interest was shown in the election.

CAMPAIGN AGAINST ALL SCALPERS IS COMMENCED

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 22.—Practically all the local ticket brokers are made defendants in a suit brought in the United States Circuit Court by the San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake Railroad to restrain them from purchasing or selling unused portions of special or excursion tickets. The suit is an attempt to secure a permanent injunction that will prevent "scalpers" from buying or selling tickets and the court is asked to fix a monetary damage in accordance with the granting of an injunction.

Forty-one Years Ago

Or to be exact, on August 13, 1867, Oakland's first bank The Oakland Bank of Savings began business in a rented office on Broadway below Ninth street.

Its policy from the beginning has been conservative, in the opinion of some borrowers too conservative, and yet it has been equally progressive.

Its new building, now almost completed, will have no superior on this Coast for strength and safety, while its deposits have increased during the last four decades as shown by the following figures:

GOSSIP FROM THE SAN FRANCISCO WEEKLIES

INQUIRIES ABOUT JUDGE DUNNE.

Rudolph Spreckels' cabinet is inquiring of many politicians whether Gavin McNab intends to nominate Superior Judge Dunne. It would be a very foolish proceeding for Mr. McNab to oppose Judge Dunne's aspiration to remain on the Superior bench. The elimination of Judge Dunne's name from the judicial ticket would invest him with the halo of a martyr. His friends, and McNab's enemies, would unite in declaring that if the Judge had been nominated he would have been elected by an overwhelming majority. If, on the contrary, his name appear on the Democratic ticket, his friends will be disarmed and himself will be defeated. There does not seem the slightest possibility of his election. The Judge can rely upon little aid except the support of the Spreckels' following, and the primary election last week demonstrated very clearly that the Spreckels' constituency and the graft prosecution represent the minority of the voters of San Francisco.—The Wasp.

MABELLE HAS ARRIVED.

Papa Gilman having been suppressed the fair Mabelle is now queening it in Paris and satisfying the very top of her social aspirations. A friend writes me from the gay capital that the California girl who abandoned the stage, which had never been very kind to her, to become the wife of Millionaire Corey, has climbed into the very midst of the aristocracy. In her magnificent Chateau Villegrines, which once belonged to Napoleon, she has entertained many distinguished persons. But the scene of her greatest triumph was the Hotel Ritz, where the Coreys gave a dinner in honor of the Crown Prince of Greece. The dinner took place in the gardens of the hotel, which were exquisitely decorated for the occasion. Among the guests were about fifty people of title.—Town Talk.

TROUBLES COME NOT SINGLY.

The untimely death of Isaac Upham, which shocked the social and business world early this week, has added to the burden which his son, Isaac Oliver Upham, has had to bear. "Ike" Upham has recently separated from his wife, who was pretty Nina Gordon, daughter of General Gordon, U. S. A., retired. She was a great belle in Washington society before the marriage, and society learned with surprise and regret the news that Mr. Upham had taken up his residence at his club. This announcement was followed quickly by divorce proceedings instituted by Mrs. Upham. It is said that in retaliation for his wife's proceeding young Mr. Upham recently decided the attractive Piedmont bungalow, which he built for his bride, to his father, who was killed in the sad accident in San Jose. The elder Mr. Upham, head of the firm of Upham & Co., formerly Payot & Upham, was one of the city's most sagacious and energetic business men, and his demise is regretted by hosts of business and social associates. Mr. Upham's wife was a very beautiful woman, who died several years ago. She was Nannie Delzelle and had been a great belle, both as a maid and later as a young matron. She always retained her good looks and appeared far more the sister of her two big strapping sons than her mother. They were devoted to her. The sudden death of this estimable lady was another great shock to the friends of her family.—The Wasp.

WHAT DO YOU THINK OF THIS.

A well-known daily newspaper, not to be otherwise specified, prints the following news item:

A handsomely dressed woman sat in a big red machine down the street. By her side in the seat reclined a fat, repulsive-looking young bulldog.

Another fashionably dressed woman passed that way. She came out of a department store, where she had been worrying the life out of a few harmless shop girls for two or three hours, and her lofty gaze fell full upon the little dog in the automobile. She stepped to the curb, patted the little ugly beast on the head and said:

"Oo tweett litt' sling; let me tuss um!"

And she did! She stooped over the prostrate, helpless form of the innocent brute—fit subject for the dog pound—and printed her painted lips on the dog's chaste nose.

The asthmatic beast snuffed a little and the grand lady passed on.—The Argonaut.

ENGAGEMENT OF MRS. BRYAN.

The engagement of that exceedingly popular society leader, Mrs. Linda Bryan, to Prentiss Cobb Hale, which was hinted at last week, can be announced openly this week, as the intimate friends of the happy couple are now in the secret. The match is an ideal one, as the gentleman is a cultivated man of the world and the lady is a most charming woman, whose social talents and experience fit her to grace a home such as Mr. Hale can give her. Mrs. Bryan has received much attention, being an exceedingly popular hostess, but she seemed to accept the attention of suitors very lightly and to be content to take life easily and pleasantly alone. Some of her friends predicted that she would never marry again, and the news of her engagement to Mr. Hale will, therefore, be something of a surprise to many persons. The lucky man is a member of the very prominent Hale family, whose large mercantile fortunes have been intertwined with those of our city, and whose names are as well and favorably known in business circles as in society. Hale Brothers is a household word, so to speak. It is not too much to say that Prentiss Cobb Hale has been justly regarded as one of the most eligible bachelors in San Francisco. Besides being a broad-minded man of affairs, he is admirably well read and his literary accomplishments, combined with his agreeable personality, make him a most delightful companion. Like the charming woman on whom his choice has fallen, he has many friends, so it is safe to predict that the home of Mr. and Mrs. Prentiss Cobb Hale will become a center of social interest in the best sense of the term. The marriage of this highly congenial and very prominent couple will probably take place in September.—The Wasp.

A PIONEER'S DAUGHTER.

In the dispatches from New York last Wednesday was told the story of the triumph at the Criterion Theater of Miss Isadora Duncan. Since Maude Allan's hit in her Salome dance in London there hasn't been much said of Miss Duncan, though to her belongs the credit of being the first to create an interest in the old Greek dances, of which the Salome dance is but a variation. Miss Duncan, by the way, is a California girl. She is the daughter of J. C. Duncan, a California pioneer, who figured in a very sensational financial crash in the seventies. He was president of the Pioneer Dime Savings Bank, the wreck of which was a most disastrous affair. It was in his beautiful home that his daughter's artistic temperament was developed. The Duncan home was filled with works of art. Greek art was the banker's hobby. When Isadora Duncan made her big hit in Berlin some years ago a friend of the family told me that when she was at the age at which children delight in fairy stories her father regaled her with stories of life in Greece. And even in those days the girl evinced an aptitude for classical posing, spending much of her time imitating the postures of the statues in her father's house. She afterward studied the terpsichorean art with the celebrated teacher Maude Bonfant.—Town Talk.

ANENT LOCAL SOCIETY AFFAIRS.

While the society scribes are gleefully announcing the dates of the coming balls and skating parties, society itself, that complex and subtle web, which spins itself over the crust of life, is breaking up into little groups. People are getting into touch with each other and are ordering a substantial filling spread between the layers of the cake served by society every year. This little group of girls has engaged a teacher for once a week lessons in harmony; that little group is searching for a teacher for a sewing class; countless little groups plan to have classes in French conversation. There are those who expect to get their mental titillation by the palatable method, and there are others who are willing to get in and dig, but with all these is the same desire, it is not the same effort, for a few mental trimmings on the heap of platter of pleasure passed round day and night during the season.—News Letter.

HEART PANGS OUTSIDE CROCKER DANCE.

There are a number of mothers limping around with a puncture in the family pride, because their darlings were not invited to Ethel Crocker's dance. Every one, with any claim to social distinction, coveted invitations for this young hopefuls, but many that might have expected them searched in vain through the morning mail. Mrs. Crocker is in poor health and it was argued that her secretary must have managed the affair. But it was Miss Ethel herself who drew up the guest list and attended to every detail of the affair, as her mother thought the experience would make her more self-reliant. People supposed to be "close up" were besieged with requests to use their influence. A substantial matron who asked Miss Lily Lawlor to procure invitations for her son and daughter has told any number of people that "Miss Lawlor is just too mean!" And thus are friendships broken! Miss Gussie Foutz, who is a very frequent visitor at the Crocker home, also was forced to refuse a dozen or more girls who asked her to use her influence in her father's way. One clever and large-hearted Miss who was invited did squeeze in two of her girl friends who might have expected to be asked. The girls live across the bay and she invited them to her home and then telephoned to Ethel Crocker that she had house guests and so couldn't come to the dance. On hearing who they were Miss Crocker, of course, said "bring them along."

Miss Jennie Crocker constantly celebrates the fourth of July with her disposition. Every day on the calendar is an Independence day with her. While she is very fond of her numerous relatives they rarely succeed in boring a hole through her deeming to do things according to the dictates of her own sweet will. For example, Miss Crocker was not present at the dance given by Mrs. William Crocker for her daughter, Miss Ethel Mary Crocker. To be sure Ethel Mary is only in the near-debutante set and Jennie Crocker has always shown a preference for girls half past her own age. However, it was expected that she would take a position somewhere down center front when the calcium was turned on at the dance. Instead she went choo-chooing in her private car for a week end fishing trip on the McCloud river. The Alexander girls stayed behind for the dance although Miss Crocker had whisked their imagination with stories of the delights of the McCloud County Club. She herself was just a bit disappointed in the trip, as not a single rattlesnake glided across their path. Ever since Miss Crocker was in at the killing of a rattlesnake on the road to Tahoe last year she has been anxious to put another notch in her gun.—Town Talk.

POPE'S OBJECTIONS TO DR. HANNA.

The objections to the distinguished Dr. Hanna, chosen as assistant by Archbishop Riordan, are based on his alleged "modernism." This is opposed to the methods of the "modernists." His holiness, not long ago, issued a letter warning the community against them. Evolutionists and rationalists, and all the scientists who have that the biblical story of the creation is simple and erroneous. Heretofore tradition handed down from the ancestral patriarchs that tested their flocks in the wilderness, are dangerous "modernists." Science must conform to the teachings of Rome or suffer the consequences. It is the same old battle that has been waged for centuries, and which has left far more dents in the armor of the militant churchmen than that of the persistent scientists pressing ever forward in larger numbers and increasing boldness.—The Wasp.

BENEFIT FOR THE WIDOW.

Mrs. Brule, widow of Judson Brule, the well-known playboy, will be given a benefit at the Van Ness Theater, Friday afternoon, August 28, under the auspices of the Pansy, Olympic, Corinthian and Merchants' Association clubs, of which deceased was a member. The program for the benefit will be made up of select professional, club and society talent.—Town Talk.

A GREAT EVENT IN DOGDOM.

The fashionable dog show at Del Monte has not observed all the nice etiquette of dogdom as carefully as did Colonel and Mrs. Greenway of London at the swell reception of the Curly Pooodle Club. The invitations which were sent out by Colonel and Mrs. Greenway were carefully engraved and were worded as follows:

THE CURLY POODLE CLUB
At Home
Friday, July 8.
20 Cravenhill,
Hyde Park. 3:30-6

All the belles and beaux of the pooodle world, attired according to the latest "doggy" fashions, responded to the invitation. The "pooodles" garden party is the annual court of the pooodles, when old favorites and past prize winners renew their acquaintance with each other and debutantes make their first bow to the judges. Guests, human and canine, began to arrive in motor cars, carriages and taxicabs shortly after 3 o'clock, and at 4 o'clock, when the judges took their place on the lawn, there was a brilliant assembly. Attached to each pooodle by an ornamental ribbon leash, entwined with flowers, was its fair owner in a dainty summer gown; but interest in human toilets was lost in the wonderful creations worn by the pooodle guests. By general consent a tiny white pooodle named Zeta was the belle of the party. Zeta, who belongs to Mrs. Cleveland Greenway, made a triumphant entry seated in a white perambulator decorated with masses of white marguerites and pale blue ribbons. Zeta herself wore a lady's bonnet, a white bib and a pale blue sash, and was quite conscious of her own importance. Second only to her in the opinion of the judges was Master Cupid, a very smart pooodle belonging to Mrs. Vernher Chatter. Master Cupid's toilet was traditionally correct in every detail, from the gold wings on his shoulders and the wreath of pink roses on his head to the little bundle of arrows by his side. The winner of the third prize, Mrs. Fagan's Honey, flaunted the purple, green and white ribbons of the suffragettes.—The Wasp.

THE CLEVEREST MOT.

The cleverest mot of the Bohemian Club links was that uttered by Judge Kahn of New York, a visitor. At one of the dinners some one was asked to pass the water.

"Who in h— wants water?" asked a genial clubman.

"Everybody," replied the New Yorker.

The mot was passed down the table, but on route it was attributed to Judge Lawlor. Some one said, "How what a clever thing Lawlor just said!" and repeated the mot. And Judge Lawlor, preoccupied with his plate, did not deny the self-impachment.—Town Talk.

A TITLED SUITOR.

Society has been observing that one of the most popular belles in San Francisco, the daughter of a prominent and respected capitalist, with a great house in town, has "a shadow" in the shape of a very good looking Italian Count. The heiress possesses plenty of good common sense, as well as accomplishments and good looks, and nobody even believes she will ever marry for a title except Cupid acts an important figure in the affair. A good looking young American, who lives in Honolulu, had been selected by the girl as the likely man to capture the hand and heart of the heiress. This young gentleman came from the islands some months ago to be best man at the wedding of his brother, who married, by the way, the best friend of the heiress. The latter postponed her trip abroad for several months so that she might be bridesmaid at that fashionable wedding.—The Wasp.

SAN FRANCISCO MUSICIANS.

In few cities, if any, so far from the center of things, is there as much musical talent as in San Francisco society. There are some musicians of rare value here, who are never heard outside of their circle of drawing-room acquaintances. If the "learning your own living" proposition were to suddenly confront these women they could doubtless solve the problem with their music. Miss Adeline Mills has perhaps sung more in public than any of the other girls, just as Miss Beadie Ames, who is now in Boston, has played the "cello" a great deal more than most of the society girls who handle some other instrument equally well. Miss Helen de Young plays the harp, according to the honest belief of many judges, as well as any professional harpist in San Francisco. Mrs. Worthington Ames has a voice of velvety quality and full volume that would not make the concert stage too steep for her ambition. There are a dozen young women who play the piano pleasantly enough to make their playing of commercial value in the drawing-room, and there are not a few who have sufficiently mastered the violin to win acclamation from a judge with the most exacting ear.—News Letter.

MARY ANDERSON IN LATER LIFE.

Mary Anderson entered on her fiftieth year on Tuesday July 28, and the statement is borne out by documentary evidence of her birth at Sacramento in 1858. Twelve of those years—from her sixteenth to her twenty-eighth—were spent on the stage, and all London rushed to see the young actress, who, if she were not a heaven-born genius, was delightful to look at. But the glamour of the footlights soon faded. Miss Anderson settled down to a calm life at old-fashioned Broadway, a quaint spot in the heart of England, where there is an American colony to keep green the memory of Miss de Navarro's native land.—Town Talk.

A STORY WITH MORALS AND IMMORALS.

A trio forming part of a smart company motoring to the beach, one night last week went home the most thoroughly disgusted two women and one man in San Francisco. There had been two others in the party, a bachelor for about town and a young girl scarcely of debutante age. The host was an ex-New Yorker of considerable wealth and prominent social connections. It was a foggy night and all the beach resorts were visited by the company, warming their chilled extremities at the big fireplaces and listening to the raucous singing of the darlings and the other "entertainers." Incidentally, a few quarts of champagne were absorbed. Somewhere around the witching hour when chickens crow the chauffeur, tired of waiting and probably accustomed to his employer's blustering ways, decided that he would take himself home, and with him departed the bachelor and the young girl, glad to make their escape. About an hour after noticing the grey streaks of dawn struggling through the windows, the convivial clubman shouted for his chauffeur.

"He went home long ago, sir," said the writer, consolingly.

The clubman's verbal reception of this cheerful news made the blinking light blinker.

"Ring up the garage and have them send for us," he shouted.

But the phone had something to say on that score. It had been working overtime and went on a strike about 4 o'clock. No garage could be hailed over the wire. An hour and a half later a woebegone trio, consisting of two women in light frocks and thin shoes and a clubman in evening clothes and patent leathers, were walking homeward across the damp park, and at every step in the weary miles the owner of the fugitive automobile offered up fervent prayers that his missing chauffeur may hit a street car before he is a week older. The string of morals in this other tale need not be printed.—The Wasp.

MINTZERS HAVE RETURNED HOME.

The William Mintzers have returned from their country place near Richmond and are again in their handsome town house. Mrs. Mintzer was one of the most energetic hostesses of last season and promises to repeat her activity again this year. For a long time she had taken no active part in society, which was a distinct loss, as with large wealth and an instinct for doing things in a perfectly appointed way, she was too valuable a hostess to lose. With a daughter approaching the debutante age, Mrs. Mintzer has renewed her social activities. A number of house parties were entertained this summer at their country home, which is one of the most elaborate establishments kept up out of town, with liveried servants and a full-dress dinner regime, just as in a town establishment.—News Letter.

POOLROOMS AND SOCIETY IN MARIN.

The poolrooms at Sausalito have divided Marin county society as the split prosecution has done to social circles in San Francisco. An outsider cannot appreciate the depth of feeling on the question among the veteran commuters. The average summer resident from San Francisco thinks lightly of the matter and doesn't seem to care whether the poolrooms are run or not, any more than a New Yorker in San Francisco bothers his head about Pickels, Honeys & Co., or the horse cars on Market street. The summer resident who goes to Mill Valley or Ross never sees the poolrooms. Neither do the 90 per cent of the summer visitors to Sausalito, unless they cross the ferry for the purpose of gambling. But the bitterness of spirit exists just the same, and extends all the way to San Rafael. An evidence of this feeling was the society row over the invitation to a select dance at San Rafael which was sent to a nephew of a Sausalito poolroom supervisor. The young man who got the card is a popular and presentable chap, but his avuncular connection with the government of Sausalito was too much for the proud and sensitive spirit of San Rafael. The invitation was recalled, and thereupon the young man's uncle threatened to invoke the majesty of the law, it is said, unless the doors of the ballroom were reopened. When the night of the dance arrived, however, the wisdom of the young man himself was proved by his absence. San Rafael breathed freely again. A great social cataclysm had been averted. Those suburban rows are as bitter as a Kentucky feud.—The Wasp.

A MUCH ENTERTAINED GIRL.

Miss Adelaide Bohrmann, who is to marry Clay Miller at the end of this month, is holding the center of the stage just now in the matter of entertaining. Mrs. H. C. Miller gave a large tea for her last week at her home in Sausalito. Mrs. A. A. Watkins was hostess at a "shower" in Sausalito. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Johnson of San Rafael gave a large dinner for them on Saturday, and Miss Edna and Miss Sidney Davis, who have just returned from Europe, will also give something in honor of this popular girl.—The Wasp.

POLITICS AND LOVE IN MARIN.

In a suburb like Mill Valley local politics take on a social complexion. The women don't vote, but they talk, and they influence the voters that listen to them at the breakfast and dinner tables. One of the spirited contestants now agitating Mill Valley is that between Will Paley of Mill Valley and L. C. Pistolesi of Sausalito for Supervisor of the Third District of Marin county. Pistolesi is the incumbent and is said to have the backing of Sausalito voters who favor the poolrooms and who have hitherto been numerous as to be invincible. His term will expire in January. He ran for Town Trustee in Mill Valley last spring and met with a double reverse, as he lost the contest and about the same time the society columns reported that his engagement to Miss Edith Metcalfe, daughter of Captain and Mrs. John Metcalfe, was off. It was an absorbing topic over the breakfast tables as the commuters gulped down their coffee and bolted their biscuits before starting on the regular daily Marathon sprint for the railroad station. Mill Valley society is not fully convinced as to the reasons for the broken engagement, though a consensus of opinion appears to be that the dashing young statesman is too ardent an admirer of the sex.—The Wasp.

ANOTHER ENGAGEMENT FOR ANNOUNCEMENT.

I hear that the next engagement to be announced is that of a lieutenant in the navy, who came here with the Atlantic fleet a few months ago, but has since been transferred to the Pacific squadron. He is tall, dark and good looking. The girl is petite, with wavy black hair, and is extremely pretty and is clever with her pen, having written several articles for one of our newspapers. Since she "came out," several winters ago, she has been a great belle with the army and navy as well as in the Greenwich set, and she is one of the few girls who do not know what it is to sit out a dance.—The Wasp.

WHY CHARLIE WAS MISSING.

The fact that Charlie Dickman, a list, bon vivant, jolly good fellow and all-round Bohemian, failed to take a place as "Baldie" in the recent J. Bohemian Club midsummer flink at a grove has called forth storms of query from the popular artist's friends both in and out of the club. "Why didn't Charlie turn up at the flink?" has been the universal question. Cast for a star part in Schoffauer's weird new play, and for years a leading spot always at the midsummer flinks, where, where was Dickman? and why did he fail to appear? And at last the answer is out. Because, in addition to his titles as artist, gourmet and Bohemian, he is also a husband, and a newly made one at that, and the attractions of his pretty young wife, Miss Claire Chabot, who recently wedded Leon Boqueron, and who is now in Europe on her honeymoon trip, Dr. Dunn's father, the late Martin Dunn, was a wealthy pioneer of Oakland. The Chabot family and its many connections are plunged into deepest mourning in consequence of this tragic death. Only a few days before the fall from his horse killed Dr. Dunn, he had been one of the pallbearers at the funeral of the late Miss Dargie.—The Wasp.

A TOBACCO MAGNATE'S DIVORCED WIFE.

Helpless from the use of liquor and narcotics when she forged checks, as the defense made by Mrs. Alice W. Duke, who was convicted in a Chicago court the other day on the charge of passing a bogus check at the Grand Northern Hotel.

"I intend to fight the case to the last ditch, and I believe that I will win in the end," said Mrs. Duke after her verdict had been read. "I never expected to see the case go to the jury, and I am firmly expected to be released without further hearing. My attorney has a dozen reasons for asking for a new trial and I am sure it will be granted."

After Mrs. Duke's conviction she was released on her original bonds of $500 and awarded a new hearing. The case would have but passing interest, but for the prominence of the defendant, who is the ex-wife of Brodie L. Duke, the tobacco magnate. This is not by the way, the multimillionaire told in Francisco with his handsome young bride. That tobacco magnate was James Buchanan Duke.—The Wasp.

MRS. PETER MARTIN'S SMART STREET DRESS.

Soft, clinging satins are very much in vogue now. My Paris correspondent writes me that it is being almost entirely worn both for evening and in street. The new shades for reception are banana and corse. Smart black, brown, green and blue dresses are being worn in the street. Mrs. Peter Martin, by the way, is wearing for a shopping costume a very soft, black satin, the skirt pleated and the waist draped. A yoke and long, tight sleeves are of cream lace. He wears a large black hat to complete the costume, which is a very stunning as well as a very becoming one.—The Wasp.

SOME ARMY ENGAGEMENTS.

Miss Helen Chaffee, daughter of General and Mrs. A. R. Chaffee, whose engagement to Lieutenant John H. Howard, U. S. A., was announced recently, has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. George F. Hamilton, in the Philippines for the past five months. Lieutenant Howard is attached to the Ninth Cavalry, now stationed in the Philippines. Miss Chaffee made one of her first appearances in society as a young girl when, with Miss Virginia Lee, now Mrs. John Carter Montgomery, she attended Miss Burton, daughter of General Burton, on the evening of her wedding to Lieutenant George Mason Lee. The marriage of Miss Chaffee and Lieutenant Howard will probably take place this fall in California, where General and Mrs. Chaffee have made their home for many years.

Captain William Woods Forsythe, Sixth Cavalry, U. S. A., and Mrs. Forsythe lately announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Forsythe, to Lieutenant Edward Raynesford Warner McCabe, U. S. A. The marriage will take place December 1, at Jolo, Island of Jolo, Philippine Islands, where the Sixth Cavalry is now stationed. Lieutenant McCabe is the son of Captain and Mrs. W. Gordon McCabe of Richmond, Va., where his engagement was announced last Sunday. He has many acquaintances in this city, as has his fiancée.—The Wasp.

AN OAKLAND EVENT.

The usual "Well, well, what a surprise! How well she kept the secret!" was chorused when announcement of Mrs. Louise Bromwell Martin Bradley's marriage with Dr. E. G. Stratton was made. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. I. Brownwell. Her father, L. L. Brownwell, the insurance man, died some time ago. Selby Martin, whom Louise Bromwell married when she was a young girl, left his young widow a more than comfortable fortune when he died, a few years ago. Dr. Stratton, to whom Mrs. Bradley was quietly yoked last week in Alameda, is a Canadian who came to California just before the quake of 1906, and is said to be something of a medical celebrity in the Dominion. He has lots of money, which, though his wife has plenty of her own, is always an agreeable accompaniment to a husband.—The Wasp.

DEATH OF DR. DUNN.

Dr. James P. H. Dunn, whose untimely death was greatly deplored by a large circle of friends, was the husband of Miss Chabot, one of the daughters of Mrs. Remi Chabot, and sister of Miss Claire Chabot, who recently wedded Leon Boqueron, and who is now in Europe on her honeymoon trip. Dr. Dunn's father, the late Martin Dunn, was a wealthy pioneer of Oakland. The Chabot family and its many connections are plunged into deepest mourning in consequence of this tragic death. Only a few days before the fall from his horse killed Dr. Dunn, he had been one of the pallbearers at the funeral of the late Miss Dargie.—The Wasp.

RETURN OF A SUCCESSFUL SINGER.

Will K. 4th, who is visiting his mother and sisters here for a few weeks, used to be the tenor in old St. Luke's choir, when the Rev. W. W. Davis was rector of the church and handsome Mrs. Schultze was the soprano. Young Keith went to Europe to perfect his voice and study for the operatic stage. As he was very fine looking and gifted with a magnetic personality it was predicted that he would become as great a matinee idol as was Eugene Cowles or Hayden Coffin, but he never gave his own townspeople a chance to see him in an operatic role. Indeed, although he speedily became a favorite and successful singer, appearing in New York, Philadelphia and most of the large European capitals, he found he could never make a hit in opera—and for a very simple reason. He was subject to stage fright. Curiously enough, on the concert stage he has never experienced the slightest touch, so 'tis said, of embarrassment in facing an audience.—The Wasp.

MRS. ELEANOR MARTIN'S NEW INTEREST.

The big white bird, the eleona alba, is busy again, and this time he is expected in the Oscar Cooper household. Mrs. Cooper, who was Miss Anita Harvey, is planning a fascinating layette for the little visitor, and I hear that Mrs. Eleanor Martin is so enchanted at the idea of becoming a great-grandmother that she is adding many dainty bits to the tiny trousseau.—The Wasp.

STORK TO VISIT MAYOR TAYLOR.

Rumor has it that the stork is hovering over the roof-tree of Mayor Taylor. The long-legged bird is also expected to alight shortly on the roof of the Vincent Whitney, to whose home he has already paid one cordial visit.—The Wasp.

Several Other Robberies and Petty Complaints Told to the Police by the Sufferers.

Alfred Hill of 1063 Seventh street was the victim of pickpockets while on a Key Route train in the vicinity of Hopkins street and San Pablo avenue yesterday afternoon, losing $25 in gold. Hill was unable to say just how the money was taken from him or to give any description of the suspected parties, whom the police are seeking for.

The police are also asked to seek for a man named James Booth, who is accused by J. E. Geller of 610 East Twelfth street with having absconded with $4 worth of doughnuts and cake which Geller had given him to sell on commission. Geller claims that Booth even neglected to return the holes in the doughnuts, which he was particularly anxious to preserve as patterns for the next batch.

F. J. Melbourne of the Pacific Indemnity Company at Twenty-second and Wood streets, has complained to the police of the theft within the past few days of a number of pitchforks, scoop shovels, crow bars, dies and tups, pipe cutters, wrenches and an oil burner, all of the value of over $100.

PRETTY MAIDS FROM JAPAN ARE EMPLOYED TO TRIBUNE'S GALLERY OF SMART SET

POLISH MILADY'S PINK TOES

And They Are Able to do
the Task Without Tickling
in the Least

THE gentle art of manicuring pink toes without tickling the patient to death is only accomplished by the Japanese foot manicurist. It is no new thing to have toes manicured, but the practice was confined to the few of the aesthetic until the coming of the barefoot dance and the Salome fad.

Now it is the real thing in society. The demands of freak entertainments, sometimes public, and sometimes private, compel milady to be prepared at any time to pull off her shoes and stockings. The only ones barred in these entertainments are those with crooked toes, ingrown toe nails, and scars from corns or bunions.

So the foot manicurist has become a necessity to the up-to-date toilet. The pretty toe nails must be given the same care as the finger nails. The corners must be rounded and the flesh

MARGARET ANGLIN ON STAGESTRUCK GIRL

Margaret Anglin, the actress, who in the comparatively short period of fifteen years has learned a profession, served an apprenticeship, won to herself international fame and a fortune of $100,000, is in a position to speak authoritatively of the "stage-struck" girl and her prospects. Miss Anglin deprecates the usual attitude of the family and society in general toward the "stage-struck" girl and has a kind word to say for her aspiring sisters. "They won't all win out," she explains, "but it is a difficult matter to know which one will win. Some of those who look the least promising are the ones who develop magnificently, acquiring strong personality, great talents and wonderful powers of imagination and compelling forces."

IMMIGRANTS TO BE EDUCATED BY WOMEN

Mrs. Charles Warren Fairbanks is honorary president of the National Society of Patriotic Women of America, and Mrs. J. Horon Crozman is president. One of the objects of the society is the patriotic education of the immigrants. Classes for the instruction of immigrants in their civic duties and privileges will be established next winter under professional teachers. The society is nationally organized and will extend its work to other States than New York, as the need for enlightenment becomes evident. The historian of the society is Mrs. N. Taylor Phillips. The society has an impressive array of officers and is unique in that it has no ancestral limitations of membership.

Woman Joins Faculty of University

Mrs. Florence G. Stout recently has been appointed dean of women in the State University of Kentucky. It was the latest for the State of Kentucky that the State Agricultural and Mechanical college was renamed and given a handsome appropriation in harmony with its greater dignity.

Mrs. Fletcher Riker, president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, wrote to each of the trustees of the university at their recent meeting, making the request. The convention of the State Federation sent a telegram endorsing this petition from the whole federation. A committee composed of representatives from two chapters of the D. A. R., the Equal Rights Association, the United Teachers of the Confederacy, the Chautauque Circle, the W. C. T. U. and the Woman's Club of Lexington obtained a hearing before the trustees of the university and asked for the appointment of a dean of women as a member of its faculty. Mrs. Florence G. Stout, who was appointed dean, has been director of physical culture. Her department was first raised to a full professorship, which gives her all the rights and privileges of a member of the faculty.

Only Japanese Woman To Enter University

Tsuru Arai, a girl from Tokyo, Japan, is the only maiden of her nationality to enter Columbia University. She is making a specialty of philosophy and is doing a large amount of post-graduate work. As recreation she takes systematic exercise in the gymnasium. She is adapting herself to American conditions with the traditional ease of her race and will stay at Columbia for three years.

WOMEN LINE UP AT BANK TO WED HIM

Farmer Converse Flees From Crowd to Escape Consequence of QUEER "AD"

WARE, Mass.—Sanford Converse, a retired furrier, fifty-eight years old, widower, estimated to be worth $50,000, will leave Ware to escape a deluge of marriageable women who have lined up upon him at all hours of the day and night since the appearance in a Springfield paper of the following advertisement:

WANTED—Housekeeper for widower who has no children or other in-brothers; man of means and one of the best known citizens in this section; no colored woman and no foreigner who is not wholly conversant with the English language need apply, and none but neat women of good appearance, preferably under 40 years of age, will be considered; good home and satisfactory wages will be given; all applicants must have references that will bear investigation; my references are the Ware National Bank, Ware Savings Bank, or any merchant or business man in this section. Sanford Converse, Ware, Mass., R. F. D. No. 1.

When the Ware banks opened yesterday morning the line of women in front of the banks until they found out that the women merely wanted the opinion of the banks relative to Mr. Converse.

Some of the applicants rode to the farm of Mr. Converse in carriages, two managed to procure automobiles and a large number resorted to the telephone. Mr. Converse has a bushel basket filled with letters. To make matters worse, lifelong friends of Mr. Converse made use of the telephone for unkind jokes. The advertisement will not appear in today's paper, though it still had five insertions to run.

"Never mind that," Mr. Converse, fairly shouted to the business office of the newspaper, "I've had my money's worth, and more, too."

massaged and all the pinkishness brought into full view.

It is a secret confined by the necessity of its privacy to dressing-rooms, but the only real toe manicurists who can operate without tickling are the Japanese.

It is not an uncommon thing for one lady to recommend to another their particular artist in this line. Just as a woman says to a friend, "Where did you get that hair dress?" or "Who is your dressmaker?" they say now "Who does your toes?"

And then the proud possessor of the pinkest toes and of the highest polished toe nails proudly strips the silken hose off her foot and sticks up her little toes for everyone to admire.

It may seem the extreme of the fashion, but anything is possible since the monkey dinners and the directoire gowns.

Laugh Opens Career of Newspaper Woman

Mrs. W. C. Humphrey is one of the best known of English newspaper women. Every morning at 9 o'clock she is at work dictating until 11, when she goes out for luncheon and to keep appointments connected with her work. Or she rests until after tea. At 6 she goes to her desk again, and often writes for three solid hours. In accordance with a recent decision of the courts her pseudonym, "Madge," and the title of her weekly articles in the London Truth are her own property.

"Madge" of Truth was her first journalistic success. And it began in this way, as she relates: "One day as I was passing St. George's, Hanover Square, in a passing rain I saw a wedding was going on. I asked where it was and I was told the Mackintosh of Mackintosh. I laughed the whole way home. It rained all the day without stopping, and the association of ideas with so appropriately named a man as the Mackintosh of Mackintosh filled me with delight. I accordingly sent a little paragraph about it to Truth. It was the first thing I offered to Truth. It was published.

"My next contribution was a private view of the Grosvenor Gallery. It was the 'Grosvenor gallery' period, which Sir W. S. Gilbert satirized in 'Patience.' I wrote a long article about it and sent it to Truth. The editor actually wrote, congratulating me on it, and asking for more. He had more. He has had it regularly every week from then until now.

Woman Received Prize For First Time in History.

Mme. Jeanne Marni has just won the Chaudard prize given to the Societe des Gens de Lettres of France. This is the first time that it has been awarded to a woman. It was given for the general excellence of Mme. Marni's work. Among the noted recipients of the prize have been Guy de Maupassant and Camille Lemonnier.

Just What Does the New Style Dancing Do to a Woman's Health

The illustration shows how a woman's body is twisted in some of the modern stage dances. The question agitating theatrical circles is, will not this muscular exertion be fatal to the dancer in a brief period?

a tribute is paid to the great interest the queen has taken in the hospital. The statue is the work of George Wade.

What has the new style of dancing done to the dancer?

Miss Gertrude Hoffman answers the question thus:

"I decline to answer the question from the moral standpoint. The world will always differ as to whether art is pure or impure. The artist is so busy working that she has no time to moralize.

"Physically, I find that barefoot dancing has improved my condition, and I am suffering no ill effects from my new work, which represents two performances a day, to say nothing of practice hours. The necessity of dancing with bare feet is having a salutary effect on the foot of the American dancer who has been abusing them by the use of high heels and padded toes. She once walked on the tips of her toes to keep in practice, and this tends to shorten and broaden the foot, while the lack of support and the blinding generally breeds down the instep and brings on many nervous ailments of the foot.

"Now, if you dance in bare feet they must be kept in good condition, massaged and coaxed into beauty as much as the hands. So every bluish discoloration and little by little the dancer acquires not an abnormal and miss upon, but a perfect foot.

"The same may be said of the dressing of the body. There can be no tight lacing into steel-plated corsets, the body becomes supple, natural and healthy. Formerly I could only walk a short distance and indulged the cab habit simultaneously. Now I can walk with the best of athletes and never feel it."

Dancing is supposed to appeal to the artistic sense, to feast the eyes. The dancer who poses well is a delight to the artist.

While the officers were taking their prisoners to the patrol box Emma Wilson, one of the crowd of by-standers, made such a disturbance that she was arrested.

because they were so deeply guarded from American eyes. However, there is much to interest the stranger in our free Western life, but perhaps the very best thing about California is its hospitality, and in that we can more than hold our own with every section of the Union.

HALL-HAYS MARRIAGE.

Mr. and Mrs. William Merritt Hall have sent out invitations which request the presence of their friends at the marriage of their daughter, Alice Louise, to Mr. Harry T. Hays, on the evening of Thursday, September 10, at half past eight o'clock, at Plymouth church.

No doubt the church will be crowded on that occasion with representatives from many of our leading families, for both the Halls and the Hays families have many friends, and a wide circle of acquaintances.

The Hays were among the pioneers of Oakland, settling in the early days in what has been known for years as the "Jack Hays canyon." This old family home was afterwards bought and made more beautiful by the William J. Hughes.

Mrs. Hayes Jr. was Miss McMullen, coming of the fine old Southern family so important in the social annals of San Francisco, so that the children and grandchildren of the Hays family have many friends on both sides of the bay.

The bride-elect, Louise Hall, is a very charming, most lovable girl, who has spent all her life in Oakland, and who has been a member of the well-known younger set of girls which has grown up together and has had so many good times in a bright girlhood.

The Halls lived for many years in the Lakeside district near Jackson street, but recently they built one of the picturesque homes which are the distinguishing feature of Piedmont.

The wedding will be one of the social events of the early September days, and after a wedding trip the young people are planning to make their home at Porterville, where Mr. Hays has business interests.

LIVERMORES' NEW HOME.

The Horatio Livermores have leased their beautiful home on Russian Hill to the Chamberlains of Santa Barbara.

The Livermores are planning to leave for Europe early in October, and they are planning to spend a year abroad. Their daughter, Beth Livermore, has been in Europe for some months. The Livermores formerly lived on our side of the bay, at Rockridge Park, which is now the Claremont Country Club. They have a beautiful country place in Sonoma county, and an interesting home in San Francisco, and the old Oakland families whom they knew in the days when they lived here are always welcome in their home, and especially at the many social entertainments which they give.

SMITHS AT LAKE TAHOE.

Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Smith have spent some days in the Sierras, and were recently at Lake Tahoe. Their home at Shelter Island has not been opened this year, and Mr. Smith's yacht, "Effort," did not enter into the competition for the King's Cup in the yacht race this year.

The latter took place a week ago, the cup being won by a yacht specially built for the race, and with better sailing properties than the Effort or the Queen, both of which were regarded as the fastest sailing yachts in the Staten Island Club.

MISS WRIGHT'S MARRIAGE.

Cards have been sent out by Mr. and Mrs. Kirkham Wright announcing the marriage of their daughter, Jeanette Langley, to Edward Johnson Torrey on Wednesday, the 12th of August, at the bride's home on Clay street. Some of the cards have come to Oakland, since the Wrights formerly lived here. They are cousins of the Kirkhams, whose home on Eighth street was, in the pioneer days, the most beautiful home over here. The Wheelers and Wrights have many old friends on this side of the bay, for Mrs. Wheeler was formerly Katherine Kirkham.

Doctor and Mrs. Wheeler make their home now in San Francisco, but Dr. Wheeler's connection with the Merritt Hospital affairs brings him often to this side of the bay.

The wedding of Mr. Torrey and Miss Wright took place at the bride's home, and though it was planned along simple lines, following the wishes of the bride, it had many charming details.

Mrs. Torrey wore the conventional white satin gown and tulle veil, and she made a lovely bride. Yellow is her favorite color, and one that she most often wears, and it was the scheme of decoration throughout the home.

After a brief wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Torrey are to return to San Francisco, and will, for the present, make their home with the bride's parents.

DRUMS RETURN NEXT MONTH.

The John Drums and other San Francisco people who are quite as well known here as they are across the bay, for the Drum family home was for many years on Market street, and the young people of the family spent all their school days over here.

Miss Cassie Drum was always a most popular girl, and as Mrs. William Greer Hitchcock she has developed into a most delightful matron. Miss Sam Drum's engagement was recently announced, and her future home is to be in Southern California.

The John Drums will return to town in the middle of September, and will take possession of Mr. Drum's handsome home on Broadway. They have been spending the summer in Ross Valley, with Mrs. Drum's parents.

Mrs. Drum was Georgia Spleker, an only daughter, and her parents are deeply attached, not only to her, but to her husband as well.

The Drums have promised to spend part of each year in the old family home in Ross Valley; an extra wing has been built on the old family mansion, the addition practically being a delightful and artistic home in itself.

LEVEL LEA OPEN AGAIN.

All the many friends of the Clay family are delighted that Mrs. Clay is home again, and that once more Level Lea is the center of much in a social way.

There is such a large family connection that the fine old home has always been full of guests, each one sure of a special welcome.

Mrs. Clay is never so happy as when she is making other people happy, and for years she has presided over the largest family gatherings on our side of the bay. About the traditional hearthstone of the Clays there has been room for many, all made welcome by one of the sweetest and most gracious hostesses in the wide world.

And Madeline Clay is at home again, and that means always much doing in the way of social activity. For all the world knows Madeline Clay is the most generous hearted of girls, the most loyal hearted of friends, with exceedingly fine measurements for a girl so young.

Mrs. Clay entertained at luncheon this week in honor of the Misses McCorkle, sisters of Mrs. Sam Bell Wakefield.

Mrs. Wakefield has recently returned from Applegate, where she has been spending the summer with her sisters.

The Clays and Wakefields are very old friends, and on that account the luncheon is a very graceful compliment to the visitors.

Mrs. Sam Bell Wakefield is a most interesting young matron, with exceedingly charming, well-laid ways.

Since coming to Oakland the Wakefields have lived quietly, for the early days of their married life were saddened by the great tragedy of the sinking of the Rio de Janeiro, in which Mrs. Wakefield and her lovely daughter, Naomi Wakefield, were drowned.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Wakefield have traveled a great deal, but they are now to make their permanent home in Oakland, in the family residence on Harrison street.

The luncheon on Tuesday, at Level Lea was delightfully planned, the table showing a most attractive color scheme in green and gold. Miss Josephine McCorkle was the guest of honor, and those invited to meet her were Mrs. Samuel Bell Wakefield, Mrs. Philip Clay, Mrs. Harrison Clay, Mrs. Robert Lee Stephenson, Mrs. J. W. Moore, Miss Elsie Marwedel, Miss May Coogan, Miss Grace Sanborn and Miss Jane Barry.

Mrs. C. C. Clay presided at the luncheon, giving her guests a most delightful afternoon.

Mrs. Harden Crawford (Annie Clay) and her children, are expected at Level Lea in September, and there will be a royal welcome for her. Mrs. Crawford's home is in New York, and the family spends its summers at a beautiful country home at Seabright, on the New Jersey coast. It is two or three years since Mrs. Crawford has been at Level Lea, and her immediate family and many friends are glad of her home-coming.

The Philip Clays are planning to build a permanent home on this side of the bay, and one hears that the new home at Fruitvale is to be along very picturesque lines.

Mrs. Philip Clay, who was beautiful Edna Barry, has many friends over here, who will be glad that her permanent home is to be on this side of the bay.

BRYAN-HALE ENGAGEMENT.

An engagement of much interest to many people was announced this week, that of Prentiss Hale and Mrs. Linda Bryan.

Mr. Hale is a member of the firm of Hale Bros., a successful business man, and a gentleman of wide travel and much culture.

Mrs. Bryan is most attractive, and one of the best known young matrons on both sides of the bay. She has done some very good literary work, and has entertained extensively in her artistic home in San Francisco.

Mrs. Bryan is a graduate of the Van Ness Seminary and among her intimate friends, classmates at the seminary, are Mrs. Clarence Mann, Mrs. Frederick Stolp and Mrs. John Charles Adams.

Mrs. Bryan met Mr. Hale during fleet days, and the engagement adds another to the many romances brought to us by the coming of the great fleet.

RICHARDSON RECEPTION.

Cards are to be sent out this week for a reception to be given in honor of Mrs. William H. Richardson and her sister-in-law, Miss Julia Richardson, the fascinating young Southern girl who is here on a visit.

The hostesses are to be Mrs. J. Loran Pease and Mrs. George Gross, and they are to entertain for their sister and Miss Richardson at the old family home of the Gages on Harrison street.

It will be interesting to many old friends to meet "the Gage girls" all together again in the old family home. There have always been such good times in this old home, and dearer, sweeter girls never gladdened any home. They are all young matrons now, with homes of their own, and they have carried with them into these different homes, the rare charm of manner, the sweet, generous hearts, that made attractive and bright the old family home of childhood and girlhood days.

The reception to the visitors is to be given on September 3, and cards will be sent out in the near future. Mrs. Pease and Mrs. Gross are asking a number of their young girl friends to assist them in receiving, and the "at home" will be the first large affair of the month, opening the season in a bright way.

It will mean a general reunion of very prominent families, many of whom have just returned to town after the vacation holidays.

MISS NICHOLSON IS BETTER.

The many friends of the Nicholsons are very glad indeed to hear of the improvement of Miss Corrie Nicholson, who is at the hospital recovering from an operation for appendicitis.

Miss Nicholson is such a charming girl, and so popular, that her friends are delighted to hear that her recovery is practically assured.

ENGAGEMENT OF MISS KING.

Many happy good wishes will find their way this week to Miss Pearl King, whose engagement to Mr. Ernest S. Tanner of San Francisco has just been announced.

Miss Pearl King is a splendid girl, perhaps the most highly accomplished of any of the popular girls who all had their coming out in the same winter.

We all remember the elaborate ball at which Mr. and Mrs. C. H. King formally brought out their daughter, the big reception in the large drawing-room, the marquee on the lawn where the young people danced happily, and the elaborate supper served at midnight.

But the butterfly side of social life never in the past appealed to Pearl King. She had everything that a much-loved daughter in a luxurious home could have, but stronger and better things in the world of work beckoned her on. The stage called to her, but she would not go until both her father and mother were willing, and they realizing finally that the social life of her girl friends meant only weariness of spirit for their daughter, allowed her to have her own way.

She has been successful in the wider world of work, has achieved many of her ideals, and is stronger in character for the experiment she has so successfully tried.

Miss Pearl King spent two years at a New York school, and her training there was followed by an extended trip through Europe. She is a superb pianist, and in all her varied travels she has never failed to keep up her practice, doing this for her father, because her music was always a pleasure to him, and one of the things of which he was most proud.

Mr. Ernest Tanner is now in San Francisco, the representative of the Parke-Davis Company, wholesale druggists of New York.

GONE TO AETNA SPRINGS.

Mrs. Isaac Roqua and her little granddaughters left this week for Aetna Springs, planning to be away a month. At Aetna Springs also have been Mr. and Mrs. Bush Fennell (Miss Huff) and Mr. and Mrs. William L. Ham Shiel.

MISS PARDEE ENTERTAINING.

Miss Florence Pardee, the eldest daughter of ex-Governor and Mrs. George Pardee, has been entertaining many guests during the summer holidays at her home here.

Miss Stanton of Los Angeles has been a recent guest of Miss Pardee's, and both the girls have been delightfully entertained at the Presidio.

Florence Pardee is one of the prominent girls who has chosen a university career, and she has done good work in the University of California, of which her father is one of the prominent alumni.

VISITING IN ST. HELENA.

Mrs. Remi Chabot, with Mrs. James Dunn and the latter's two little girls, left for St. Helena on Tuesday afternoon.

They will spend the summer and early autumn there, at Mrs. Chabot's country home.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Bocqueras (Clare Chabot), are in Paris, and will not re-

PHEBYS ARE HOME AGAIN.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pheby have returned to town and are at the family home on Madison street.

The Phebys enjoyed a delightful summer vacation this year in the North and in Yellowstone Park. The home of the Wrights on Madison street is one of the most hospitable in the Lakeside district. And since it has been remodeled it is also one of the most artistic.

Their friends have always the heartiest of welcomes from Mrs. J. T. Wright and her daughter, Mrs. Pheby, the latter one of the very bright and cultured young matrons, whom one often meets at social affairs.

HENSHAW STILL IN LONDON.

Mrs. William G. Henshaw and Mrs. Lucie May Hayes are in London, and have greatly enjoyed the late summer days there. They are making Paris their headquarters, and from there they visit leading cities on the continent. Mrs. Henshaw and Mrs. Hayes are not expecting to return home until late in the autumn.

VERY QUIET IN SOCIETY.

Very little in a social way is being planned for the remainder of the summer, and quiet days are for the most part the rule.

There are a few informal gatherings of old friends, and here and there a table or two of bridge, and not very much besides in the way of social dates. Nevertheless, the days are busy ones, and each of us moves on apace, as Thorau says: "Each one keeping step to the music which he hears."

DEATH CALLS

ISAAC UPHAM.

An accident deprived the Upham boys of their father, who, though 71 years of age, was still a vigorous man, entirely capable of managing his business affairs and of great value in the community. At the time of his death Mr. Upham was busy about the affairs of the State insane asylum at Agnew, in which he was interested. No one seems to have been to blame for the frightful accident. Wedding

The wedding of Miss Alice Smythe of San Lorenzo and Edwin Smith of this city will be an elaborate affair. Miss Smythe is the youngest daughter of Mrs. M. E. Smythe, one of the pioneer women of the State. The house, with its fine, large rooms, is an admirable place in which to entertain. Nearly two hundred guests have been invited for the affair, for which the arrangements will be quite original. The date for the wedding is September 9 and the officiating clergyman will be the Rev. Alexander Allen of St. Paul's Church, Oakland. The members of a sewing club of which Miss Smythe has been a member for several years, will lead the bride, singing. To wedding song from "Lohengrin" the bridesmaids will sing the wedding march are Mrs. H. J. Lackey, Mrs. Harry Anderson, Miss Eda Curtis, Miss Albia Sanborn, Mrs. John L. Reed, Mrs. Hillsdale, Mrs. William Macdonald, Mrs. Joseph Dean, Miss Katherine Gray and Miss Agnes Thompson. The bridesmaids will wear gowns of a light hue, the rainbow shade being selected. Miss Eda Curtis, a sister of the bride, will be the maid of honor and a little nephew, Harry Smythe, Jr., will be the ring bearer.

Mr. Smith is building an attractive home for his bride in Grand avenue, in the lake district, which is very near completion. He will be attended by Dr. F. Herbert Brown of Berkeley as best man.

After the return from the honeymoon trip there will be several affairs given complimentary to the young couple.

WILL JOIN KOREAN MISSIONS.

Carda have been issued by Mrs. Lucy E. Munro for the marriage of her daughter, Miss Jessie May, to Ralph Oliver Reiner, to be celebrated at the First Presbyterian Church, Berkeley, Wednesday evening, September 2. The Rev. Lapsley A. McVee will be the officiating clergyman.

On September 15 Mr. Reiner, with his bride, will sail for Korea, where they are to engage in missionary work.

The young people are both very well known in Berkeley, having graduated from the university in the class of 1905.

The bride, who will wear a gown of white messaline silk, will be attended by her sister, Miss Loretta, as maid of honor. Green and white will be the color scheme, the bride's attendants all wearing white gowns with a touch of green. The bridesmaids will wear a combination of white with white and green. The bride's attendants will include the Misses Ruth Munro, Mary Bannan, Ella May Lerner, a sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Nellie Connor.

After the ceremony at the church here will be a reception at the bride's home on Russell street, to which the relatives and nearest friends have been invited.

ENGAGEMENT BRINGS SINCERE CONGRATULATIONS.

The engagement of Mrs. Linda Bryan and Francis Cobb Blair is bringing forth the most sincere congratulations from so many friends of both. There has been nothing that has so pleased and interested society on both sides of the bay as this announcement.

There is certainly no one in San Francisco society more popular than Mrs. Bryan, who is adored alike by old and young.

Charming, gracious and generous to a fault, she is the center of every fashionable gathering and an enthusiastic worker in every charitable affair, where she never fails to lend her best efforts. It was she who devoted all her time and energy to making the wives and children of the "foreign" comfortable after the big fire, procuring through her personal efforts enough clothing for about 700 women and children.

Mrs. Bryan is a girl of brilliant personality, with a most charming personality, which endears her to all with whom she comes in contact.

Mr. Blair is an unusually fine man of sterling worth, humane to a marked degree and of a most generous nature, so the match is certainly an ideal one.

AUGUST WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. John Douglas Eby have issued cards for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Clarissa, to Ernest Livingston of San Francisco, on Saturday, August 29, at 5.30 o'clock. The affair will be most informal, just the way that will please the dainty little bride-elect best. Miss Eby has a very sweet, winsome manner and counts her friends have been privileged to see the pretty tresson and her tell that the altness is quite worthy of the owner, whose favorite color of pink is very much in evidence. The Rev. Frank Irish of the Alameda Presbyterian Church will be the officiating clergyman. There are to be no bridal attendants, everything to be as informal as possible.

Miss Eby is a Stanford girl and a color artist of ability, having been a student at Hopkins Institute. After the wedding Mr. Livingston and his bride will go to San Rafael for two months. No future plans are made as yet as to where they will make a permanent residence.

selves of the opportunity of complimenting the guest and several others are now on the social calendar.

On Thursday evening, Mrs. Gleason shared the honors with Mrs. Lillian Boy of Porterville at a card party given by Mrs. H. J. Lackey. Mrs. Eby is visiting her mother and sister, Mrs. Albia Lackey and Miss Ida Lackey.

Last evening Miss Albia Curtis asked a number of close friends to meet Mrs. Gleason, the diversion being cards. Cards apparently are a favorite diversion of Mrs. Gleason, for yet another hostess, Mrs. William A. Hercheiser, has arranged the same entertainment for her on next Tuesday afternoon.

SURPRISE PARTY.

A pleasant surprise was given Mrs. H. Winkelman on Tuesday evening to celebrate her eighteenth birthday. The affair was a complete success and a merry time was enjoyed.

The decorations for the room were of green and white.

Among those present were the Misses Parker, M. Williams, K. Williams, D. Stevens, M. Stevens, A. Burck, R. Winkelman, L. Thibson, Mr. and Mrs. C. Winkelman, Mrs. E. L. Winkelman, Mrs. E. C. Winkelman, Mrs. Stevens, Messrs. Workman, Dolinger, Rex, C. Hogan, Birchard, A. Costanzo, Bowen and T. Elliott.

INTERESTING TRIP.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Perry are again at their home in Claremont, having returned from the South and East, where they had a fine trip down the St. Lawrence and through the Thousand Isles, stopping at Montreal and Quebec, returning to New York across Lake Champlain and Lake George and down the Hudson. They found the weather delightful everywhere in the East, but very warm in Galveston and New Orleans and other Southern points.

CALIFORNIA CHARMS VISITOR.

Mrs. L. V. Snyder of Alhambra, Pa., who has been visiting her son, Louis Snyder, and family on Myrtle street during the summer, left for the East on Thursday evening, stopping with friends in Los Angeles and Chicago en route. While this is Mrs. Snyder's first visit to the coast, she was so well pleased with our genial climate that she anticipates an early return.

MRS. EBY POSTPONED.

Owing to the sudden indisposition of Miss Ruth Bunnham, Mrs. E. L. Bunnham has postponed the musicale to have been given this afternoon until next week.

Upon the date to be announced Mrs. Bartholomew will have as her complimentary guests Miss Bunnham and Miss Elizabeth Price.

VISITING EASTERN RELATIVES.

Mrs. G. N. Eston, who has been spending the past month in Boston, accompanied by her son and daughter, Russell and Anna, is at present in Lowell, N. Y., visiting her uncle, H. A. Phillips. Mrs. Eston expects to return to her home, 1379 Jackson street, the latter part of September.

OUTING AT BEN LOMOND.

Miss Anna Poston has returned from Ben Lomond, where she has been the guest for a week of Mrs. E. A. Heron. Mrs. Heron has had a number of house guests during the season. Miss Elinor Parker is now with Mrs. Heron at her attractive country home.

OUTING IN HIGH SIERRAS.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Anderson will leave tomorrow for a two weeks' sojourn in the high Sierras. They will return in time for the Smythe wedding. When Mrs. Anderson is to be a member of the bridal party.

Los Angeles' Offer To 'Fighting Bob'

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 22.—Following a proposal made some time ago, the Los Angeles Harbor Company yesterday extended an invitation to Rear-Admiral H. B. Evans to become chairman of its board of directors. Should he accept, it is expected that he would become a resident of Los Angeles. The admiral is no Lake Mohonk, N. Y., and all efforts to reach him last night and York the opinion is expressed, however, that his health will prevent his acceptance.

TOWNSITE PROMOTER WAIVES EXTRADITION

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 22.—W. S. Phillips, promoter of "Narcissus" and other townsites, has waived extradition on extradition to Chicago. He furnished $5000 bonds to insure his appearance in the Illinois Federal court to answer to a charge of using the mails for fraudulent purposes.

Phillips is under $5000 bonds in two cases now pending in the Superior court charging him with obtaining money under false pretenses. These cases will not be dismissed unless the promoter is convicted by the Federal court in Chicago.

JAMES W. CLAYTON OF SAN JOSE NEARING END

SAN JOSE, Aug. 22.—Edward W. Clayton, president of the pioneer realty firm of James W. Clayton & Company, is lying at the point of death at his home on North First street as a result of an attack of kidney trouble, which came on last Sunday while he was playing golf on the Linda Vista links. Dr. E. E. Moffat of San Francisco, a well-known specialist, has been called in consultation by the local doctors who are handling the case.

was going slowly, but Mr. Upham, in avoiding a car, ran straight in front of the machine and had no time to turn out.

We all remember well when Mr. and Mrs. Upham lived in Jackson street in a big, beautiful, hospitable home. The sons were little fellows then, and Mrs. Upham was a beautiful and fascinating woman and devoted mother. Only second in good looks to Mrs. Wheaton, Mrs. Upham was much admired and much sought after. She died suddenly about fifteen years ago. Mr. Upham never remarried, but until the fire always maintained a home in San Francisco. Since the fire he has lived principally at the Hotel Vendome in San Jose.

He will leave a large estate to his two sons, the large Upham building which housed the store of Fayot Upham before the fire being his individual property. Its loss was a serious one. It has been rebuilt, but on a smaller scale.

It was a sad family gathering which came from all over the State to attend Paul Miller's funeral. All the Herricks and their large family connections were there, except the three Herrick sisters, who are traveling abroad. The C. O. G. Millers were already in mourning for Mr. Watt, but now all the other daughters-in-law and the Mhoons and Fred Macgows are also in mourning. It will make a considerable difference in the winter gaieties both here and on the other side of the bay. Mrs. H. M. A. Miller is one of the most indefatigable of hostesses, and the C. O. G. Millers had begun to do a great deal for Mrs. Marian Miller, who was to have come out this winter. The debut will probably not be postponed. The C. O. G. Millers have a beautiful new home across the bay, but Mrs. Miller has been in ill health or in mourning ever since its completion.

THE JONES-GIBSON WEDDING.

The church wedding at Trinity, San Francisco, last Saturday noon of Miss Grace Llewellyn Jones and Robert Gibson Jr., of New York, was one of the few large weddings of the summer. So many people have been quietly married, or have eloped, or have married a week or so sooner than their friends expected that most of the summer brides, though replete with interest, have been short of the air of expectation which the real delightful wedding should always possess.

Miss Jones chose the most fashionable hour of the most fashionable day for her wedding, and came clear across the continent and compelled her bridegroom and best man to do the same in order to be married among her old friends. It was a pretty bit of sentiment, and judging from the outpouring at Trinity, her friends appreciated her devotion.

The church was beautifully decorated in the chancel and at the altar with tall St. Joseph lilies and woodwardias, and a program of interesting organ music was rendered during the half-hour before the ceremony. In addition to some of the bridal marches written for some of the more recently married members of the English royal family there was the exquisite "Spring Song" of Mendelssohn, so full of life and love and all exquisite blooming things. As a finale Miss Helen Geborn Heath sang "Edna's Dream" and sang it very well. The singer was invisible, and as the piano, full notes floated among the Gothic arches of Trinity the effect was wonderfully good, and there seemed no incongruity in hearing the "Traum" in church. As soon as the notes had died away the bridal music from "Lohengrin" commenced, and to it the six ushers and bride, on the arm of her uncle, Commander Jere Burnett of the navy, went up the aisle.

The bride's gown was simple, but very beautiful. It was cut in the prevailing empire fashion, and was of a very soft, clinging quality of satin. The train was long and hung beautifully, flowing almost from the shoulders. There were no lace trimmings, only the long tulle veil which fell to the edge of the train. It was said that the dress followed English lines and that the English do not load their brides with rose and duchess lace, esteeming that for dowagers. The bride carried an ivory prayer book, her mother's gift, instead of a bouquet.

Two of the ushers were from the army, two from the navy, and two from civil life. The best man was the groom's brother, Mr. Gibson wore the morning toilet of smart New Yorkers a frock coat of rather light gray with gray gloves. The bride's mother wore a handsome gown and bonnet of lavender.

The bride is a most unusual-looking girl and is considered a beauty. She is a blonde of most spirituelle expression, with soft, light, fluffy hair, soulful blue eyes, and a beautiful and expressive mouth. She has grace and a great deal of dramatic talent. Most of her friends have believed that she would eventually go on the stage, but Mrs. Jones always opposed such a course. Mr. Jones died before the birth of his daughter, and the mother and daughter have been inseparable. They had never been apart, even for a day until the bride left for her wedding journey. Mrs. Jones studied with her daughter, kept up with her in all her work, and had her always instructed by private tutors. She was really beautifully educated, speaking Italian and French as well as she does English, and German almost as fluently. Oaklanders will remember Miss Jones' performance of "Phedra" in French in the Greek Theater. The performance was remarkable for its grace and facility and for the actress' really beautiful French. Shortly afterward she was asked to take part in a German play. Miss Jones knew very little German, but in four weeks she learned her part perfectly and spoke the German lines without a trace of accent. It was, of course, a tour de force.

Most of the young woman's life has been passed abroad, and for many years Mrs. Jones and her daughter lived in Venice. They know Europe as few Californians know California.

As an exponent of Browning Miss Jones attained no little fame, and one of her most charming performances in a pseudo-dramatic way was her reading of the young girl's part from "The Hilt of the Scutcheon" before the San Francisco Browning Society.

The groom is a well known New York lawyer, and looks both clever and interesting. Of course, every one is going to call his bride "a Gibson girl," but people must get used to puns on their names. He will take his bride to his New York home, and there, after a few months, her mother will follow her.

One result of the bride's histrionic power was that the responses in the bridal service have never been so beautifully read. The bride's lovely voice floated through the church almost as Miss Heath's had done in the "Traum," and one heard every word of the beautiful but usually hopelessly blurred service. Between clergymen who cannot read, grooms who are frightened to death, and brides who are afraid of seeming bold one usually hears very little of the most beautiful bridal service in the language.

It had been announced that there would be no wedding breakfast, but there was one for the bridal party and a few very close friends at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Vandelyn Stow in Broadway.

DEATH OF MR. STAFFORD.

The death of William G. Stafford, the well known club man and wealthy coalman of San Francisco, though not unexpected, was a great grief and loss to his friends. Mr. Stafford has been hopelessly ill for months though he himself always expected to recover. Formerly in most robust health, he could not believe that his time had come. Mr. Stafford's funeral was attended by hundreds of men, his loyal and devoted friends. A director of the Bohemian Club, a Supervisor until his last illness, and prominent in business and fraternal life, he had many devoted friends, and will be greatly missed.

PASSING OF MRS. I. W. HELLMAN SR.

The death of Mrs. I. W. Hellman, wife of the well known banker, leaves a gap not to be filled in the benevolent life of San Francisco. Mrs. Hellman, who was a charming woman, gave much of her great wealth and all of her time to altruistic work in which she was much interested. As a founder of kindergartens, director of the Emanuel orphaned and of many hospital and relief societies her spare time and much of it which was not spared, was devoted to making others happier, and to alleviating the condition of those to whom fortune had not been kind. She took but little interest in social activity except in those which had unselfishness as an object. A family of three married children and her innumerable husband survive her.

PEOPLE AT DEL MONTE.

Mrs. W. H. Crocker and her children and Mrs. Alexander and her daughters will go to Del Monte next week to spend a fortnight. William Crocker Jr. is at present with the sons of E. H. Harriman in Oregon, but will return in time to join his family and go to Del Monte.

HAS JOINED HER SISTER.

Miss Ethel Dean has joined her sister, Mrs. Walter Magee, on the Magee ranch in Nevada. The sisters recently lost their mother, Mrs. W. P. Shaw, and have since spent all their time together. Their father died many years ago and their mother was a widow for the second time at the time of her death. The grandmother of the sisters, Mrs. Wenban, is still alive and is active and well.

VISITING AT AETNA SPRINGS.

Among the Oakland people at Aetna Springs are Mrs. Requa, the Misses Amy and Sallie Long, and Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Craft.

Latest Rules of Spaulding Adopted at the Annual Election

Twenty schools were represented at the annual meeting of the delegates of the Academic Athletic League and election of officers held at the Oakland Polytechnic High School last night. An important result of the meeting was the passage of a resolution introduced by Delegate Blythe, that the rules of Spaulding be adopted in the league this year. The introduction of the resolution precipitated a warm discussion. H. M. Clifton of San Jose made a strong plea for Rugby as it was found in Santa Clara High School at the Western Sub League are now playing that game. The majority favored the new rule.

The big fellow trotted to first and in the confusion of Madden he threw the ball between Danzig's legs and going to third on Helmut's single. The error cost him his life.

SCIENTISTS TO SEEK GRAVE OF EXPLORER

AVATON, Cudda Island, Aug. 10.—
A party of scientists including Professor Arant, a Spanish Philologist, is coming to Avaton, about 100 miles in an effort to locate the grave of the great explorer who discovered
Santa Cruz Island. In 1492, Columbus discovered the island, but his ship was not able to land. The grave is said to have been discovered in the island museum which proved to be the disturbance of the grave. A great captain was buried in 1492. The grave is said to be in the island above Avaton. The grave is said to be marked by a small monument donated by the people of Santa Cruz

Popular Girl Is to Plight Her Troth

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Marion Walsh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Walsh of 1111 Broadway, to Dr. E. L. Lohse of 1111 Broadway, is a prominent member of the exclusive set and a kind of high society. The bride is one of the most successful of the young people in this city. The engagement was not to have been announced for two weeks, but in some mysterious manner the happy secret leaked out. No date has been set for the marriage of the young couple.

The Cause of Headache

Further investigation of the causes in headache prove especially to be the dominant cause.
At every Medical Congress,
many papers are read on this subject. Scientists are unanimously in the declaration that the majority of headaches find its origin in eye derangements.
The strain may be removed by properly fitting glasses.

SAMUEL E. COOPER KILLED BY A CAR

Aged and Retired Auctioneer
Run Down in San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10.—Samuel
E. Cooper, a retired auctioneer, 70 years old, was killed yesterday afternoon about 1:30 o'clock by an outboard motor car driven by a man named Martin L.
Hopper and conducted by F. F. Sinclair.
Cooper, who lived at 1113 Ninth avenue,
San Francisco, was crossing the street at Fortififth avenue and H street at the time he was struck by the car. As soon as the motorist realized what had happened he stopped the car and placed Cooper aboard.
Instead of switching back and rushing the man to the Park Hospital the car crew resumed its trip to the beach.
Detective Jack Fitzgerald boarded the car at the beach for the return trip to the city and when he discovered the injured man ordered the motorist to

POLICE ARREST BURGLAR SUSPECT

(Special to The Tribune.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10.—Following close upon the pistol encounter between two Music patrolmen and two burglars who had attempted to blow open the safe in the Pacific Tank Company, 17
Pine street, early yesterday morning, comes the arrest today of Philip Mc-Guire by Detective Gallagher of the southern station.
The officer, noticing the suspicious actions of McGuire took him into custody and found in his possession a complete set of burglars' tools. Not only is the prisoner suspected of yesterday morn-ing's attempted burglary, but it is also believed that he is one of the men responsible for numerous crimes committed in the south of Market district.
His name was placed on the detinue book. He will be held pending an investigation of his record and will be shown up to the watches.

Coffee and Beer

Coffee is good but unwholesome.
Beer is good and wholesome.
Coffee is a stimulant. Beer is a food and tonic.
The percentage of caffeine in coffee is injurious.
The percentage of alcohol in

Wieland's Beer

is harmless—just enough to aid digestion, helpful to the system—not harmful—given to convalescing patients and nursing mothers, where coffee is refused them.

Demand Wieland's—don't accept an ordinary beer—that costs you just as much.

Perfect for the table—the ideal home beer.

Take Key Route, Southern Pacific, or street cars to Berkeley Station. There will be automobiles waiting at our main office to take you to NORTHBRAE TERRACE.

(Northbrae Terrace)

The office will be open a day Sunday. Take NORTHBRAE cars from Shattuck and University Avenues direct to tract office, or an automobile at our main office.

THERE'S LUCK IN ODD NUMBERS

At last the plan of sale.

You won't believe this advertisement when you read it. You won't believe it till you see NORTHBRAE TERRACE. Then you'll know it's true—every word of it.

Seeing is believing—when it comes to NORTHBRAE TERRACE. All that stands between you and a quick, a sure profit of $150—and bigger profits if you hold on—is a trip to NORTHBRAE.

TAKE THAT TRIP. Come to NORTH-BRAE today. Come Sunday. We'll refund your fare.

Don't let anything stand between you and that $150. Don't let your disbelief cost you $150.

NORTHBRAE TERRACE is in the city of Berkeley—not adjoining Berkeley, but within the city limits. Berkeley's all around it—built up to its very borders. But when we priced the lots in July we priced them at a third less than frontage a block away. It's easy to prove that—easy to prove that NORTHBRAE TERRACE lots are for sale at one-third less than their market value.

Then we thought of our plan of sale—after we had established prices. Keep this in mind—we didn't change the price of a single lot because of this plan. The bonus we offer is a genuine bonus.

$150 FOR YOU

TERRACE IN BERKELEY

NOW HERE'S THE PLAN.

The even numbered lots we shall reserve —that's where we make our profit. We won't promise not to raise their prices—but we absolutely guarantee not to reduce them.

But to the purchasers of the odd numbered lots we shall give outright a bonus of $150.

When you buy a lot you are absolutely insured that the lot on each side of you, though of equal value, will cost the fellow who waits $150 more than yours.

That bonus, if you are buying for a home,
means a saving of $150 to you.

If you are buying for investment, it means a sure profit of $150 to you.

We're doing this because it's good business—because in the end we'll make more on the lots we reserve than we shall lose on those we sell. With every other lot sold, new people coming in, houses going up, we can raise the prices of even numbered lots in NORTHBRAE TERRACE from 25 per cent to 50 per cent. They'll sell fast, too.

You also will get the benefit of that raise.
It's $150 immediate profit—it's a bigger profit if you hold. It's more than 100 per cent profit on your money invested.

It doesn't take much money to make that $150, either—the terms are ridiculously easy
—a small amount down and a small monthly payment.

IT'S UP TO YOU.

The NORTHBRAE TERRACE sale began at 2 p. m. today. The chance to clean up $150 is now open.

Come tomorrow. The office will be open all day Sunday.
